DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 39 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The phrase “in which multiple blanches are repeated” is not disclosed in the specification to enable one skilled in the art to make and/or use the invention. Without this information it would take undue experimentation to make and use the claimed invention.

Claim 39 recites the limitation "said assign" in part (e). There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 39-43, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takeda et al. (“Takeda”) US PG-Pub 2003/0202146 in view of Yamanaka et al. (“Yamanaka”) USPN 6,452,653.

Takeda discloses in figs. 27-35 a method for fabricating a liquid crystal display device including a liquid crystal layer 229 clamped between a first substrate and a second substrate, said method comprising the steps of: (a) forming a pixel electrode pattern on said first substrate; (b) painting a resist film on said pixel electrode pattern; (c) exposing and developing said resist film and forming a resist pattern having a shape, in which multiple blanches 217 are repeated, on said pixel electrode pattern; so that liquid crystal molecules in said liquid crystal layer orient approximately in vertical to a surface of said liquid crystal layer in a non-driving state in which a driving electric field is not applied to said liquid crystal layer, and said liquid crystal molecules orient approximately in parallel to said surface of said liquid crystal layer in a driving state in which the driving electric field is applied to said liquid crystal layer, but does not disclose conducting an ashing process for said resist pattern; and conducting a thermosetting process for said ashing pattern that said assign process conducted.

Yamanaka discloses (see figs. 8-12 and col. 10, lines 18-55) a method for fabricating a liquid crystal display device including a liquid crystal layer 21 clamped between a first substrate and a second substrate including conducting an ashing process for a resist pattern; and conducting a thermosetting process for said ashing pattern that said assign process conducted.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate Yamanaka's teachings with Takeda's since that would enhance brightness while reducing the occurrence of uneven display as taught by Yamanaka.

As for claim 41 and 42, the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claimed arrangement or any unexpected results arising therefrom. Where patentability is said to be based upon particular chosen dimensions or upon another variable recited in a claim, the applicant must show that the chosen dimensions are critical. In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578, 16 USPQ2d 1934, 1936 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

As for claim 43, Yamanaka discloses (see col. 31, lines 40-65) a thermosetting process at a temperature within the range cited in the claim.
